++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Increasingly cloudy and mild.

Today:
Some early brightness across eastern counties where it could be chilly first thing. Cloud spreading east through the day, accompanied by a freshening breeze, and bringing some patchy rain or drizzle to Cornwall. Fairly mild by the afternoon. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Mostly dry through the evening and overnight, but becoming quite murky, with hill fog and occasional drizzle a possibility. Remaining mild. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tuesday:
A dry start, if rather grey and murky for some. Perhaps briefly becoming brighter before thicker cloud spills down from the northwest, bringing light rain or drizzle later. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Further spells of rain possible on Wednesday. Mostly dry on Thursday and Friday with brighter intervals developing once morning fog clears. Daytime temperatures still a little above average.
